NEW PLANS

< FROM A1 Aviation sector

"Technology is a critical focus point for us this year, we are investing in technology for all our operating businesses; we are recognising the efforts put in earlier in terms of having the right infrastructure for the country and having movable assets in place, but now, our focus is on how to build a digital world with all the entities."

"Within the aviation sector, initially, we are moving with the transformation strategy on Oman Air which is very crucial for us to ensure that there is sustainable traffic to Oman that can allow us to increase our point-to-point traffic," Al Hinai said.

"Another plan for us this year is to exploit our airports in terms of their commercial and operational positioning. We also plan on maximising the sector's impact through other sectors, and this will be done by looking at how the aviation sector can enable other sectors in terms of their requirements; so, focusing on our sea-to-air model or our engagement with the Ministry of Tourism to study ways in which we can bring larger crowds of tourists to the country," added Al Hinai.

On February 20, the Ministry of Transport and Communications held a press conference where the minister reviewed all the proposed plans for 2019. During the event, Al Hinai presented the plans for the aviation sector, which include "focusing on digitisation and cybersecurity, implementing the Air Cargo Strategy to enhance the capacity to transport 780,000 tonnes through air by 2030, and developing long-term initiatives for the sector to enable tourism services through the development of a comprehensive electronic system."

Lutsenko crowned 2019 winner

Although Alexey Lutsenko did not finish among the top three on the last day, the Team Astana rider, who hails from Kazakhstan, had done enough throughout the race to retain his title

Times News Service

MUSCAT: Alexey Lutsenko has been confirmed the winner of the 2019 Tour of Oman.

The final leg of the race from Al Mouj to Muttrah Corniche ended on Thursday. Although he did not finish among the top three, the Team Astana rider, who hails from Kazakhstan, had done enough throughout the race to retain his title.

Lutsenko had also previously won three of the six stages of the tour, as he emerged in front on days two, three and five.

The results mean that Lutsenko of Team Astana wins the red jersey for the best individual time

On the day, however, it was Giacomo Nizzolo of Team Dimension Data who finished first, followed by Sonny Colbrelli of Bahrain Merida, and David Ballerini in third place.

Bahrain Merida's Domenico Pozzovivo also finished second overall, after suffering a crash safely in the bunch and grabs second place overall."

A statement from Team Astana said, "It's official, your 2019 Tour of Oman winner: Alexey Lutsenko!" with the defending champion himself adding, "We will have a celebration, but the main goals of the season are still ahead of us."

Team Bahrain Merida added, "Sonny Colbrelli sprints to second place in Muttrah Corniche. After the crash, Domenico Pozzovivo was able to cross the line safely in the bunch and grabs second place overall."

Team Dimension Data also congratulated their riders, adding,

"Stage 6 of the 2019 Tour of Oman

in the bag! Great ride by Giacomo

Nizzolo and Team Dimension

Data – well done, guys! Great reward for a super team effort this week." Jean-Paul van Poppel, the director of sport for team Room-pot-Charles, added, "It's been a difficult Tour of Oman for us, but I saw some positive things as well."

Nathan van Hooydonck, one of the pro-cyclists for Continuum

Cycling's Pro Team, said, "Tour of Oman done & dusted! A good preparation for what will be one of the most important weeks of the season. Looking forward to the Classics!" André Greipel of Team Arkéa Samsic chipped in, "The team had done everything it needed to do. I was placed really well ahead of the final 300 metres, but then everything stopped at once. I hesitated to throw myself ahead of the rest of the pack, and then, all of the other racers came from behind, and I was unable to even finish the sprint. I wouldn't want to know what happened to me."

Alongside Lutsenko and Pozzovivo, it was Jesús Herrada Lopez who also secured a podium finish, and he revealed his excitement at finishing among the top three: "This podium finish in the Tour of Oman would not have been possible without the help of all my companions at Team Cofidis, thanks for the support! Now it's time to get some rest, regain strength and think about the next adventure."

The results mean that Lutsenko of Team Astana wins the red jersey for the best individual time, while the green jersey for the best points tally lies with Alexander Kristoff of Team UAE Emirates, and the white jersey for the best young rider is given to Ryan Gibbons of Dimensions Data.

tion of the Tour of Oman goes to

DEFENCE FACT

Oman plays a critical role in regional peace, stability: UK Defence Secretary

Times News Service

MUSCAT: Oman has a critical role to play in maintaining regional peace and stability, according to the UK's Secretary of State for Defence Gavin Williamson.

"I think Oman, especially His Majesty Sultan Qaboos bin Said, plays such a special, pivotal role. The statesmanship, the knowledge, the wisdom that His Majesty brings to all these discussions is something that is recognised around the world," said Williamson.

"The role that Oman can play in being able to talk to all sides is so critical and so important because in order to bring peace, stability, and build for the future, you need visionaries such as His Majesty the Sultan and nations such as Oman that are sometimes able to reach across the divide and actually heal wounds."

He added, "It is this spirit of compromise and understanding that will be the pathway to peace and (solve) so many critical problems that have plagued this region for far too long."

The comments were made during Williamson's recent visit to the Sultanate, where the UK and Oman both signed the Joint Defence Agreement on

COMMITTED TO PEACE: UK's Secretary of State for Defence Gavin Williamson said Britain has made it clear that its commitment is not just to the security of Oman but to the entire Gulf region.

February 21, 2019.

Speaking to members of the press, he said, "As our Prime Minister stated a couple of years ago, 'Gulf security is our security'."

"We are looking at how to enhance that further. That is part of the reason we decided to sign the Joint Defence Agreement with Oman. Oman is one of our oldest friends not just in the Gulf but in the world."

The agreement, according to Williamson, marks a historic moment for defence ties between both countries.

"It is about how we work closely in the future with our armed forces. Britain has made it clear that our commitment is not just to the security of Oman but to the entire Gulf region. This is about training together," he stated.

The agreement aims to align the two countries' views on security, stability, and prosperity of their people.

Additionally, it aims to deepen military relations and ensure the commitment of both countries towards bilateral military cooperation and mutual defence frameworks to lead to the integration of the armed forces of both nations. It is also intended to support its sovereignty and territorial integrity.

"My hope is that it (the agreement) builds on that common shared interest between our two nations, not just in terms of defence, but in the future in how we can enable more cooperation in the fields of education, in terms of the economy, in terms of creating jobs, growth and the prosperity that Oman and Britain value so highly."

While addressing the media, Williamson spoke about the UK's upcoming departure from the European Union, which is scheduled to happen on March 29, 2019, and the "Global Britain" concept.

"It's about Britain being involved. Britain is willing to act and stand by its friends, such as Oman, in terms of their defence, their interests, their territorial integrity and actually working together to seize the opportunities that we can take together," said Williamson.

"What we have committed to doing is spending three billion pounds in the whole region over the next few years because we understand that these friendships that we have are the ones that are important to continue to invest in," added Williamson.

AL FAIQAIN CASTLE

An example of traditional architecture in Manah

MANAH: 'Al Faqain' Castle in the Wilayat of Manah in the Governorate of A'Dakhiliyah, with its high towers standing in the middle of 'Al Faqain' Village, is considered one of the most important historical monuments in the wilaya.

It reflects the depth of the traditional Omani architecture in the construction of the defensive fortifications.

The castle is surrounded by old houses and oasis of date-palm trees from all sides, casting its shadow on the place. The castle has maintained its construction formations and details for more than 400 years until it was completely restored by the Ministry of Heritage and Culture. It was officially opened during the Heritage Year on June 24th 1994.

Khalfan bin Salim Al Busaidi, researcher in Omani history said "The inscriptions found in the upper part of the castle indicate the date of its construction, which dates back to 1027 AH, corresponding to 1617 AD. It was built by a group of skilled and experienced engineers from the Wilayat of Manah. Some Imams then had a role in protecting 'Al Faqain' Castle as found in some manuscripts dating back to 1333 AH, including a manuscript of Imam Salim bin Rashid Al Kharousi.

He said that 'Al Faqain' Castle is known for its defensive fortifications, the strength of its construction and its ancient architecture. He added that the door remained unknown to all and can only be accessed by a rope hanging from a hole on the second floor. "It was difficult for visitors to climb to the castle until a main gate was allocated to the castle on the south side during the restoration process", he said.

The ingenuity of Omani architecture lies in the divisions of the four-storey Castle. It is divided into northern and southern parts. The northern part is dedicated to the military defence of the castle and the surrounding ancient affected areas as a result of the weather conditions over time were restored and were opened before visitors in 1994. In 2008, the castle was restored again by renovating the towers, corridors, arches, and laying the surface stones on the first floor of the castle and the opening of a new door connecting the northern part and the southern part in the third floor to facilitate the task of visitors, as well as the placement of a belt surrounding the castle from all directions for aesthetic purposes. Plaster was used in maintaining the whole castle.

The castle welcomes visitors and tourists from inside and outside the Sultanate to view this historical facility, its details and secrets in the traditional military architecture. —ONA

BOARD OF DIRECTORS' REPORT

Dear Shareholders,

On behalf of the Board of Directors of Al Batinah Power Company SAOG (the "Company"), I have the pleasure to present the Directors' Report of the Company for the year ended 31 December 2018.

Operational Highlights

The plant's operation was excellent during the year achieving a reliability of 99.74% and delivered 4,778 GWh to the MIS network. The plant load for the period was 74.02% against 66.98% in corresponding period of 2017. Also the Company maintained its excellent record of zero lost time accidents and zero environmental incidents, thereby clocking 2,735 lost time accident free days (717,554 man hours) at site since inception, which is reflective of our continued focus on health, safety and environment ("HSE").

Financial Results

	2018 RO'000s	2017 RO'000s	Percentage change
Revenues	75,138	70,643	6.36%
Direct costs	(53,957)	(50,297)
Gross profit	21,181	20,346	4.10%
General and administrative expenses	(778)	(783)
Profit before interest and tax	20,518	19,588	4.75%
Finance costs (net)	(9,871)	(10,562)
Profit before tax	10,647	9,026	18.0%
Tax	(1,575)	(4,470)
Net profit for the period	9,072	4,556	99.12%

Higher revenue as compared to the previous year is attributed mainly to higher plant load factor. High load factor leads to more consumption of the fuel gas and energy variable fee which is the reason for the increase in direct costs as compared to the last year. Less Gas turbine maintenance expenses and better plant reliability during the period as compared to previous year contributes to better operating profit.

Lower operation expenses and the steady reduction in finance costs positively contributed to the better profit before tax.

The net profit is almost doubled as compared previous year. The main reason was the impact on the deferred tax, due the income tax rate increase from 12% to 15% pursuant to the Royal Decree 9/2017 which was issued on 19 February 2017, considered in the previous year's accounts.

Pursuant to the Power Purchase Agreement (PPA) clauses, Oman Power and Water procurement Company (OPWP) agrees to compensate the company, on a monthly basis, for any impact on the company's cost or company's revenue that is caused or will be caused by the amendment of the tax law.

The Company distributed a cash dividend of 2.80% (Baizas 2.80 per share) in June 2018 and 5.68% (Baizas 5.68 per share) in December 2018.

The share price was 101 Baizas at the end of December 2018.

Corporate Social Responsibility

Driven by its CSR Policy to support the local community in education and health sectors, The company has entered into sponsorship agreement with three other power companies to install 80 KW solar PV system in one of the school in Barak area. The work has been completed and the inauguration was done in December 2018. The total project cost is around 60,000 OMR which is sponsored by four power companies. The Company has donated to Liwa Health Centre specialized equipment for skin clinic and a dental chair for the same Centre. The delivery of this equipment is expected in Jan 2019.

Medium term Outlook

There is no major inspection planned during this winter period (October 2018 – March 2019). Minor inspections for gas turbine no. 11 and Heat Recovery Steam Generator no. 11 are planned in January 2019. Lessons learnt from the previous inspections are being considered and management will endeavor to achieve smooth and timely completion of this inspection. The major inspections of other Steam Turbine and Steam Turbine Generator are planned in Q4 2019.

Authority of Electricity Regulation (AER) has modified the company Generation License to reflect the introduction of the Electricity spot market in 2021. As the company entered into PPA with OPWP valid until 2028, all of its invoices will be settled under the PPA. However the company should participate in this Market pursuant to modified Generation License. The Company is participating in Working Group committee meeting and preparing the implementation plan as per the guidance from AER. The company is protected by PPA for any cost it may incur as a result of the spot Market. Beyond that date, this Market constitutes one of the options the company may participate in.

All reasonable measures are taken by the management to maintain the high availability levels in 2019. Any change in the power supply and demand landscape in the Sultanate has substantially no impact on the financial performance of the Company since its net profit is mainly derived from its plant availability.

Finally, on behalf of the Board of Directors, I would like to extend our deep appreciation and gratitude to His Majesty Sultan Qaboos Bin Said and His Government for their continued support and encouragement to the private sector by creating an environment that allows us to participate effectively in the growth of the Sultanate's economy and to dedicate our achievements to the building of a strong nation.

Over 70,000 visit Muscat book fair on the first day

The entrances to the event were packed on the second day of the fair too

Times News Service

MUSCAT: More than 70,000 people visited the Muscat International Book Fair on the first day.

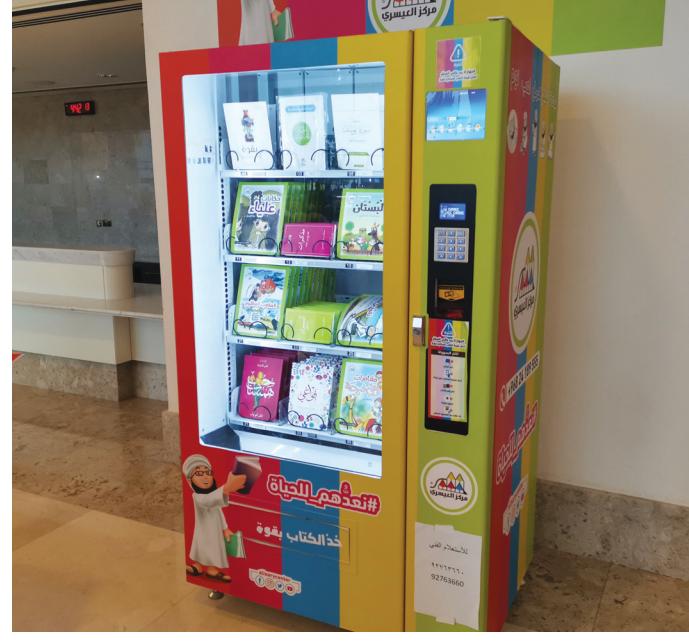

The entrances to the event were packed on Friday, the second day of the fair, but the convention centre's multiple entrances made it easy for visitors to move about. According to the organisers, "On the first day, we saw 73,547 visitors."

An employee at Al Bahj Books stall told Times of Oman, "I saw so many people with bags and luggage bags to be filled with books."

Many of these visitors already knew the books they wanted to buy in advance. "A lady came and asked for specific books, more than five of them," the employee said, adding, "She had a big list."

"People come looking for best-sellers," he added, "They look for books such as Milkman, Milk and Honey, and Paulo Coelho's new book, Hippie. They also look for new books by Malayalam authors."

Yousuf, one of the younger visitors at the fair, spoke to Times of Oman about his interests. "My favourite books are Goosebumps. I like reading them; they're not that scary," he said. Most of the visitors on Friday were Omani. The book fair occupied five halls, but a large section located at the back of halls two and three was specifically set aside for books in the English language, according to fair officials.

An employee at Dar Kredieh from Lebanon said, "We are specialised in distributing English books but also have Arabic ones.

Muscat is one of the best venues for us because the readership is quite high, especially among locals. Every year, despite the fact that the book business is going down globally, here, it always gets better. This is the second day, and things have been good so far."

"The crowd is quite good today, especially since it is a Friday, and it's especially good compared to the first days from last year. Basically, visitors come here after looking through search engines for a specific book. Sometimes we might not have a particular book and try to find alternatives, but since readers are not very flexible about the books they want to read, we try to find the books they want delivered to them after the book fair."

According to him, finding trends is difficult. "Different people want different books based on their age and interest, but if I had to generalise, I'd say that novels and self-improvement books sell quite well."

The fair also featured book vending machines, where visitors could pick out a book, insert money, and receive their order in a quick and easy manner.

Furthermore, organisers with tablets toured the fair, and they could search for any book on their devices if a visitor had something in mind but did not know where to find it.

Omanis strongly favour locally produced food products: Study

Times News Service

MUSCAT: Omanis prefer locally produced food products, according to a recent study by Sultan Qaboos University (SQU).

As part of her master's programme in the Department of Natural Resources Economics of the College of Agricultural & Marine Sciences at SQU, Arwa Al Ma'mari recently conducted a study to investigate the level of consumer ethnocentrism in Oman and willingness to pay for locally produced valued added food products. Dr Msafiri Daudi Mbaga, Associate Professor at the Department, supervised Al Ma'mari's research.

In this study, seven locally produced (processed) food commodities were investigated. Data was collected by means of a questionnaire. The mall intercept approach was employed to collect data. A total of 345 shoppers were interviewed.

The sample comprised mostly Omanis at 71 per cent. Males and females were 68 and 32 per cent, respectively. The majority of respondents (85.4 per cent) were between 20 and 50 years old. Results showed that Omani consumers are strongly ethnocentric because the mean score obtained which is 59.2, is significantly above the middle of the range of the CETSCALE Score (17 to 85), which is 51.

A majority of the consumers who participated in the study indicated that they would buy locally produced valued added food products when the price and quality of the products were as good as the imported ones.

Consumers indicated that they would buy products that offer the best value for money, regardless of whether they are locally produced in Oman or imported. Almost a half of the respondents stated that Oman's locally produced value added food products were not of poor quality.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS' REPORT

Dear Shareholders,
On behalf of the Board of Directors of Al Suwadi Power Company SAOG (the "Company"), I have the pleasure to present the Annual Report of the Company for the year ended 31 December 2018.

Corporate Governance

The Company has complied with the Code of Corporate Governance and applicable circulars issued from time to time by the Capital Market Authority (CMA).

Operational Results

The operational performance of the plant during the year was excellent, with 99.7% plant reliability. The fuel efficiency of the plant currently places it at the higher end of the merit order list for dispatch among the power plants in Oman and, as such, the plant witnessed an all-time high plant load of 74.7%. The total power generated and delivered was 4,821 GW, an increase of 7.8% over the previous year. The Company continued to experience thermal inefficiency at high generation levels and consequently was unable to recover its entire fuel gas cost expended to generate power. Continuous efforts are being made with the assistance of the equipment manufacturer and consultants to address this important factor in the plant's operation.

The splendid plant reliability and high plant load operation was achieved with a continued focus on excellence in Health, Safety, Environment and Quality Management, with the plant reaching 2,738 days since inception without any lost time accidents. We acknowledge the excellent performance of our dedicated and diligent Operation and Maintenance Contractor's (STOMO) team.

The Company duly met all the stringent environment permit conditions promulgated by Ministry of Environment and Climate. As part of energy conservation efforts the plant has replaced tube lights with LED tube lights and installed solar panel lighting at many locations including the plant's car park. The cyber security for the plant has also been strengthened in association with our Operations & Maintenance Contractor and is presently consistent with the regulations issued by the Authority for Electricity Regulation.

Financial Results

Excellent plant availability and higher power generation has led to a 4.6% growth in the total revenues earned by the Company. Despite plant's thermal inefficiency, the gross profit witnessed an increase of 2.1% due to reduction in operation and maintenance expenses. The steady reduction in the finance costs due to scheduled loan repayments and a lower deferred tax expense has contributed to a significant improvement in net profit compared to year 2017.

The Company has duly met all its commitments under the term loan agreements. Oman Power and Water Procurement Company SAOC (OPWP) continues to settle all invoices raised by the Company as per the payment provisions provided within the Power Purchase Agreement.

Finally, the Company's better operational performance during 2018 enabled it to declare and pay dividend of 9 Baizas per share, higher than a dividend of 8.56 Baizas per share paid in 2017.

The share price stood at 101 Baizas per share at the close of year 2018.

Corporate Social Responsibility

The Company takes its role as a responsible corporate citizen seriously. Most of the Company's social responsibility programs are focused at the Wilayat of Barka. During the year, the Company worked with three other power sector companies to install a solar power facility at the Government school. This initiative has been highly appreciated by the Ministry of Education. Further, the Company also donated medical equipment and wheel chairs to the primary health clinic of the Ministry of Health in the Wilayat of Barka. The total amount spent on CSR activities during the year 2018 was RO 20,000.

As a CSR initiative during 2019, it is proposed to install a solar power facility at another school in Shinas in the Wilayat of Sohar, in active participation with three other power sector companies.

Medium term Outlook

The Company continuously endeavours to identify and implement areas of improvement in plant operations. All reasonable measures are being taken by the management to maintain excellent operational performance during the year 2019 and improve the thermal efficiency of the plant. Any change in the power supply and demand landscape in the Sultanate has limited impact on the financial performance of the Company since its profitability is mainly derived from plant's availability and reliability.

The Company is constantly monitoring the international financial markets to relaunch the suspended refinancing exercise of the Company's long term loans. This project will be taken up once the financial markets improve to a level that could make the refinancing exercise financially feasible.

The Company and its Operation & Maintenance Contractor are making serious efforts to steadily increase the Omanisation, while ensuring smooth and reliable operation of the plant. Presently, the Company is on track to meet Omanisation commitment made to the Authority for Electricity Regulation.

OPWP launched their Spot Market project in 2015. OPWP intends to further liberalize the Oman's power sector and encourage private sector participation in a broader way. According to OPWP, this will open up access to available capacity that may not be readily accessible through the existing PPA procurement model. The spot market will go live by the end of 2020 and will be fully operational in 2022. The Company's Power Purchase Agreement with OPWP expires in 2028. Accordingly, the spot market will have no impact on the revenue stream of our Company until the expiry of the Power Purchase Agreement.

On behalf of the Board of Directors, I wish to express gratitude to OPWP, the Authority for Electricity Regulation, the Capital Market Authority and other governmental and non-governmental bodies for their guidance and support. I would also like to thank all personnel associated with the operation of Al Suwadi Power plant and the staff of the Company for their hard work and dedication, and also to those others such as our contractors, whose expertise has assisted us in achieving these excellent results.

Finally, on behalf of the Board of Directors, I would like to extend our deep appreciation and gratitude to His Majesty Sultan Qaboos Bin Said and His Government for their continued support and encouragement to the private sector, by creating an environment that allows us to participate effectively in the growth of the Sultanate's economy and to dedicate our achievements to the building of a strong nation.

Bashir declares year-long state of emergency

Sudanese President Omar Al Bashir said the 'demands of our people for better living conditions are lawful'

Omar Al Bashir'

KHARTOUM: Sudanese President Omar Al Bashir has declared a year-long state of emergency, dissolving his cabinet and local governments throughout the country.

In a televised address on Friday, Bashir also called on Sudan's parliament to postpone constitutional amendments that would allow him to run for another term in a presidential election in 2020.

Acknowledging the popular protests that have rocked his administration in recent months, the 75-year-old said the "demands of our people for better living conditions are lawful".

"I will not stop calling for all parties to sit at the dialogue table," Bashir said, adding he would remain on the "side of the youth who represent the future of Sudan".

Bashir's Friday address followed months of near-daily protests against his rule, with thousands of people taking to the streets across the country since December 19 calling for him to stand down after nearly three decades in office.

While the protests were initially set off by the rising cost of bread and fuel in the north of Sudan, they quickly grew into a demand for more political freedom and an end to Bashir's rule.

The Sudanese leader's term ends in 2020 and he has repeatedly promised over the years not to make new runs for the presidency. Without amending the country's constitution, he cannot run for a third term.

His announcement came days after a parliamentary committee tasked with amending the constitution to scrap Sudan's presidential term limit cancelled its meetings.

The Sudanese Professional Association, which is spearheading the country's demonstrations, warned of any measures that could "turn against" the demands of the Sudanese people, and vowed that it will respond with more escalation in street protests.

"The demands of this revolution are crystal clear," the statement said, "the regime and its head must step down." Agencies

Assam hooch tragedy toll rises to 84

GUWAHATI: As many as 84 people are dead after consuming spurious liquor in Golaghat and Jorhat districts, confirmed Assam's Excise Department.

The officials of the department said at least 40 people have been admitted in various hospitals.

Golaghat Deputy Superintendent of Police Parthopratim Saikia said, "As many as 40 people are being treated in hospitals in Golaghat and Jorhat."

Congress president Rahul Gandhi on Friday condoled the deaths in a Facebook post saying, "I am saddened by the incident which occurred in Assam's Golaghat area. My deepest condolences to the families of the victims. I hope that those undergoing treatments get well soon."

Assam Chief Minister Sarbananda Sonowal, who visited the hospitals, announced ex-gratia of Rs. 200,000 to the family of each of the deceased and Rs50,000 of those admitted in hospitals.

"We have ordered an inquiry to identify the guilty and take action against them," he said.

Seven persons arrested

Excise department said seven persons have been arrested so far and booked under non-bailable sections and over 10,000 litres of country liquor destroyed.

The deaths come less than two weeks after more than 70 people died in Uttar Pradesh and Uttarakhand from consuming illegally produced local alcohol. - Agencies

EXERCISING FRANCHISE: President Muhammadu Buhari and wife, Aisha cast their votes at Kofar Baru in Daura his home town.

More than 72 million Nigerians were expected to vote in the general elections in the country.

President Muhammadu Buhari on Saturday morning reaffirmed his confidence in winning the presidential election.

Buhari told newsmen shortly after voting at Kofar Baru, Sarkin Yara "A" ward in Daura, his home town, that he would win the election and congratulate himself.

The election is reported to be a two-horse race between Muhammadu Buhari of the governing All Progressives Congress party and Atiku Abubakar of the main opposition Peoples Democratic Party.

Seeking second term

The incumbent President Buhari is seeking a second term of office on the platform of the APC.

He came into power in 2015, becoming the first Nigerian opposition candidate to unseat an incumbent president.

In the capital Abuja, a large turnout of voters was seen as early as 7am local time.

In many parts of the city, electorates were seen awaiting the arrival of electoral officials and election materials.

Voting commenced amid tight security across the country at 8am local time, INEC said.

Large turnout of voters has also been reported in most parts of the country, despite last week's delay of polls, according to domestic and foreign observers.

"I am very impressed with the large turnout of voters. Despite the delay of the polls by one week, it is highly impressive to see this crowd of voters. Let us hope this will end well, as it has started well," a political party's agent identified as Ahmadu said.

Shops were under lock and key; private and government offices remained shut and roads, including those leading to the government secretariat, were deserted; security patrol vehicles were seen driving on major roads in Abuja to ensure a smooth electoral process.

In some polling units, local traders selling food items were seen making brisk business.

"After trekking a long distance to this polling unit to exercise my civic responsibility, I think it is good enough to buy some food and drinks here," Vincent Arinze, a voter, said. "I've just cast my ballot and feel great," he added. - With inputs from agencies

QUOTA: Prime Minister Narendra Modi's government announced on January 7, that an additional 10 per cent of school seats would be set aside for the "economically weaker sections", among the upper castes. - Reuters file photo

Indian government's trifecta of failure

RAMESH THAKUR

On January 7, Prime Minister Narendra Modi's government suddenly announced that an additional 10 per cent of school seats and government jobs would be set aside for the "economically weaker sections," meaning the poor among the upper castes.

This was on top of the already extensive quotas for various historically oppressed castes under India's wide-ranging affirmative action policy. The government rushed through a constitutional amendment to this effect on January 8 and 9. The decision may well be challenged in the courts, but the announcement was an implicit confession of three failures.

The first failure is that of affirmative action. After almost seven decades, the world's biggest and longest-running such programme – mandated in India's 1950 constitution as a temporary expedient for 15 years – has failed to ameliorate historical caste injustice.

Governments have repeatedly broadened affirmative action to include larger swathes of public life, target more groups, and cover promotions as well as recruitment. Modi has been unable to fix this situation, which he inherited, but did not create.

On January 21, following Modi's surprise announcement, Nitish Kumar, Chief Minister of the state of Bihar, called for a census of all castes in 2021 to create a system for reserving jobs based on each caste's share of the population.

The net result is that Indians are more sharply conscious of caste identity today than at independence in 1947. Far from steadily weakening over time, caste identity – and caste-based inequality – has been further entrenched. India now has a frozen equilibrium of caste-defined access to public institutions and services. And with Dalits (formerly called "untouchables") being such a powerful voting group, no political party or leader dares to suggest the abolition of these set-asides.

Unsurprisingly, the majority of benefits intended for the poor, downtrodden, and oppressed castes have been captured by the elite among them. Entitlements that were meant to address moral claims of equal citizenship have been swallowed by cynical political powerbrokers. This is especially true of caste-based political parties in which the founders' children inherit the leadership, creating family dynasties.

A second, related failure is that more than 70 years after independence, India has not managed to forge a truly national identity. Instead, the country consists of a collection of minorities who cling ever more fiercely to their group identities in order to obtain various public benefits.

Dalit caste identity is recorded at birth and reinforced throughout a citizen's life. In politics, caste calculations are crucial in selecting candidates to match the demographics of each constituency, and in choosing coalition leaders to head state and federal governments.

Finally, the government's recent set-aside announcement was an implicit admission of failure to create jobs for the millions of young people entering the workforce.

Modi promised in his 2014 election campaign to create 20 million new jobs per year by unleashing India's entrepreneurial potential. Instead, the unemployment rate is currently at its highest level since the early 1970s.

The government sat on the bleak unemployment figures for months, prompting two members of the National Statistical Commission to resign in protest, before the report was finally leaked to the Business Standard newspaper on January 31. According to the National Sample Survey Office, the unemployment rate reached 6.1 per cent in 2017-18 (compared to 2.2 per cent in 2011-12), with people aged 15-29 and urban women the worst hit.

Higher unemployment is partly a result of Modi's egregious decision in 2016 to demonetize India's highest-denomination bank notes of 500 and 1,000 rupees (about $7 and $14 respectively).

This had a particularly severe effect on the informal sector, which employs over 90 per cent of the country's workforce. Demonetization not only cost India at least 1.5 million jobs; it also failed to achieve its primary goal of uncovering "black money," because 99 per cent of the cash was returned to banks.

According to independent experts, the latest unemployment numbers are alarming, but not surprising, because signs of rising joblessness had been visible for some time. With a general election due by May, the government's reluctance to release the report is understandable.

The approaching election also helps to explain the government's sudden embrace of expanded set-asides. Having failed to create jobs, the government is instead dividing the existing pie among important groups of voters. The reality of job scarcity is to be camouflaged in the sops of set-asides.

This is "placebo politics" at its worst. Electoral imperatives have also driven budget giveaways, with something for nearly everyone. - Project Syndicate

NEW UPDATE

Now, Facebook won't transmit your location while you're not using the app

Times News Service

when people choose to use Nearby Friends, a feature that lets friends share their locations with each other, they give Facebook permission to access their location even when they're not using the app.

"Until today, people using these features were asked to enable Location History," he added. "If you enabled this setting, two things happened: you would share your location when you weren't using the app and you would allow Facebook to store a history of your precise locations. With this update, you'll have a dedicated way to choose whether or not to share your location when you aren't using the app."

For people who previously chose to turn their Location History setting 'on', the new background location setting is 'on'. For people who had turned Location History 'off' – or never turned it on in the first place – the new background location setting is 'off'.

Facebook decided to roll out the update after receiving complaints from Android users over privacy issues, which differ from those of the Apple iOS. Apple's operating system offers an additional option, so you can share your precise location always, only when the app is in use, or never. Android offers a single on/off switch for Location Services, so you can decide whether to share your precise location with Facebook and other apps.

"As a result, one of the questions we often hear from people using Facebook for Android – but not those using iOS – is whether Facebook gets their location even when they're not using the app," explained McDonald. "Today we're announcing an update to Facebook's location controls on Android to give people more choice over how we collect location information and how we store it. We're not making any changes to the choices you've previously made nor are we collecting any new information as a result of this update."

He added, "We're alerting everyone using the Facebook app on an Android device who chose to turn on Location History in the past, letting them know about the new control, and asking them to take a moment to check that their settings are right for them. If you've never turned on Location History, you don't have to do anything. We won't turn either of these settings on unless you specifically tell us to."

For people who use Facebook for iOS, nothing is changing. But the company will send a similar alert to everyone who chose to turn on Location History in the past so they can check to make sure their settings are right for them.

COMMON SIGNS OF LEARNING DISABILITY IN TODDLERS

Are you worrying that your little one is catching up with the learning material slower than his peers? Do you feel that there is some reason behind this slow pace and it is making you anxious? Are there any signs that show the child is behaving differently in social and personal life, such as inability to enjoy the time on preschool playground equipment? If there are such worries about your child's learning curve then read on to know some of the clear signs to know if your child has a learning disability or you are worried for nothing. Every child has different limits and boundaries for when they reach a milestone. That applies on learning curve as well. If your child is having difficulty in reading, writing, speaking or any other particular learning activity, that is not necessarily a disability. Some of the most common disabilities are Dyslexia, Dyspraxia, Dysgraphia and Dyscalculia. If the problem is actually because of a disability, there will be clear signs and symptoms and they will not be one off things. Such symptoms persist for a long period of time. These signs vary from child to child and more often than not these signs are interrelated. Here are some of the signs.

- The child is not able to read or write, or have speech difficulties even after the age of two years. He might have difficulty in understanding the pronunciation or cannot speak at a regular pace. He might also face difficulty in finding the right words to express what he wishes to say.

- Teaching him basic concepts like up down, left right, shapes or colours, is difficult.

- Everyday simple things like throwing a ball or shutting or opening zipper or undoing buttons is extremely difficult for the child.

- Mathematical learning skills are exceptionally difficult for the child to understand, including numbers, equations etc. The child finds it hard to pay attention or remember stuff.

- Understanding of time is challenging and it is hard for parents to teach these concepts to the child too.

- The child's coordination are not synchronized and it is also difficult for him to manage multiple things at a time. It is difficult for the child to be organised and parents also often find that it is a struggle for him to keep note of his tasks and things.

- The child also faces hardship in following parents' instructions even though they are given in a very toddler-friendly manner and parents do their utmost to make sure that the child understands. The toddler might also faces difficulty in understanding what he listens or it is hard for him to listen as well. Or even if he does listen, he is unable to understand its meaning or connect it to what is needed to be done.

- His performance in school is declining for a consistent period and shows a significant decrease.

- Even if the child is able to speak, he does it in an immature manner as compared to his age fellows. He might lisp or stutter even after the age when doing so is normal. Change or any sort of new thing is troublesome for the child.

WELLNESS

Look for ways to relax

HIGHER LEVELS of stress can cause problems at work and home. But stress is not just hard on your mental well-being, it is hard on your body and can lead to many negative health outcomes. Stress levels can also increase significantly when economic times are tough. To help you stay calm and focused, consider these four ways to reduce stress.

Smells

Certain smells can bring back very specific and detailed memories. These could be of a person, event or place. Most often the memory also has a deeply emotional feeling that is recalled. This is because smells are processed by a specific part of the brain that stores emotional memories. Taking the time to seek out smells that bring back those happy memories can help reduce stress levels.

Salt

Stress is characterized in the human body by high levels of the hormone cortisol, referred to as the "stress hormone." Scientific research has shown, in animals and humans, that increased levels of salt consumption are effective in reducing levels of cortisol. Research from the University of Haifa, published in the science journal Appetite, confirmed the relationship between salt and stress in humans. Researchers found an inverse correlation between salt and depression/stress, especially in women. Craving salty foods may very well be a biological defense mechanism we evolved to cope with daily stress.

Pets

Animal therapy has long been used to relieve stress, improve mood and treat anxiety. Some studies have also indicated that just being around an animal can reduce blood pressure. This pet therapy has been used in hospitals and nursing homes and even with military veterans suffering from depression. And it is not limited to dogs and cats. Rabbits, guinea pigs and even horses are used. An added benefit is that having a pet encourages exercise.

Exercise

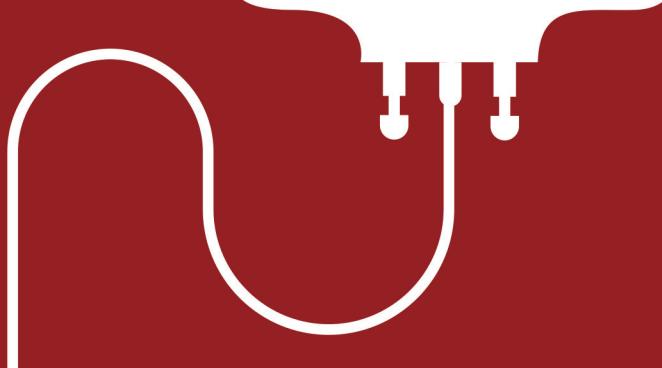

Regular exercise, even if mild, may be the best stress reducer. When you are active the body releases endorphins, which produce a feeling of well-being. Regular activity can improve your concentration as well as your sleep, which can often be negatively affected by stress.

Just going for a daily walk can help improve how you feel. And the results of exercise can also improve your self-image and confidence. — BPT

The Academy's two-year programme is divided into a number of phases, including a foundation year with a variety of development courses, followed by on-the-job training programmes. Ali bin Abdullah Yousif, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Oman Down Syndrome Association, said: "The Omani Academy for Special Skills programme is divided into five semesters over this year and next."

"The Academy aims to build and reinforce professional capabilities for this inclusive group by providing them with practical and theoretical workshops, as well as conducting internships and on-the-job training in cooperation with private and public entities in the Sultanate."

The programme, will include 40 participants, 20 of whom have mental disabilities, and aims to encourage all participants to integrate within the group, work together and communicate effectively in a variety of individual and group activities.

Oman Sail's Zimam team will deliver 15-minute keynote sessions about cooperation within a group, communication and planning, followed by practical 30-minute activities to explore the ideas. The practical activities are designed to open opportuni-

GARTNER REPORT

Global smartphone sales stalled in 2018 fourth quarter

Times News Service

Anshul Gupta, senior research director at Gartner.

- Supplied picture

MUSCAT: Global sales of smartphones to end users stalled in the fourth quarter of 2018, totaling 408.40 million units – growth of just 0.1 per cent over the fourth quarter of 2017, according to Gartner. Apple recorded its worst quarterly decline (11.8 per cent) since the first quarter of 2016.

"Demand for entry-level and mid-price smartphones remained strong across markets, but demand for high-end smartphones continued to slow in the fourth quarter of 2018," said Anshul Gupta, senior research director at Gartner. "Slowing incremental innovation at the high end, coupled with price increases, deterred replacement decisions for high-end smartphones. This led to a flat-growth market in the fourth quarter of 2018."

Apple sales

Sales of Apple iPhones hit 64.5 million units in the fourth quarter of 2018, a decline of 11.8 per cent year over year. This double-digit decline made Apple experience the biggest decline in growth for the quarter among the top five global smartphone vendors.

Apple saw iPhone demand weaken in most regions, except North America and mature Asia/Pacific. Apple's sales declined most in Greater China, where its market share dropped to 8.8 per cent in the fourth quarter of 2018 from 14.6 per cent in the corresponding quarter of 2017. For 2018 as a whole, iPhone sales were down 2.7 per cent, to just over 209 million units.

"Apple has to deal not only with buyers delaying upgrades as they wait for more innovative smartphones, but it also continues to face compelling high-price and midprice smartphone alternatives from Chinese vendors. Both these challenges limit Apple's unit sales growth prospects," added Gupta.

At the high end, Samsung smartphones such as the Galaxy S9, S9+ and Note9 struggled to drive growth in the fourth quarter of 2018 to compete with aggressive Chinese manufacturers in emerging markets, and to expand into the online sales channel."

In the mid-tier, Xiaomi and Huawei continued to grab more market share. As a result, Samsung's smartphone sales declined by 4.4 per cent in the fourth quarter of 2018.

Samsung lost market share in Greater China, Western Europe and Latin America, which contributed greatly to an overall 8.2 per cent fall in its smartphone sales in 2018.

"Although Samsung is strengthening its smartphone offering at the mid-tier, it continues to face growing competition from Chinese brands that are expanding into more markets. It also faces difficulty bringing significant innovation to high-end smartphones," said Gupta. "Samsung introduced new mid-tier-focused M series smartphones in the first quarter of 2019 to compete with aggressive Chinese manufacturers in emerging markets, and to expand into the online sales channel."

Fourth quarter

In the fourth quarter of 2018 Huawei sold over 60 million smartphones and achieved the strongest growth of the quarter among the top five global smartphone vendors (37.6 per cent). Huawei grew throughout 2018, to close the gap with Apple.

"Beyond its strongholds of China and Europe, Huawei continued to increase its investment in Asia/Pacific, Latin America and the Middle East, to drive further growth," said Gupta. "Huawei also exploited growth opportunities through continued expansion of the Honor series in the second half of 2018, especially in emerging markets, which helped Huawei grow its market share to 13.0 per cent in 2018."

In 2018 as a whole, global sales of smartphones to end users grew 1.2 per cent year over year, to 1.6 billion units. North America, mature Asia/Pacific and Greater China recorded the worst declines of the year, at 6.8 per cent, 3.4 per cent and 3.0 per cent, respectively.

"In mature markets, demand for smartphones largely relies on the appeal of flagship smartphones from the top three brands – Samsung, Apple and Huawei – and two of them recorded declines in 2018," added Gupta.

Credit extended by banks in Sultanate exceeds OMR25bn

Total deposits grew by 7.8 per cent to OMR23.30 billion, with private sector deposits increasing by 2.6 per cent to OMR14.30 billion at the end of December 2018, the Central Bank of Oman said.

MUSCAT: The banking sector in the Sultanate continued to witness reasonable growth and support economic diversification initiatives, including providing adequate credit to the small and medium enterprise (SME) sector.

The combined balance sheet of conventional and Islamic banks (other depository corporations) taken together provides a complete overview of the financial intermediation taking place in the banking system in the Sultanate.

The total outstanding credit extended by other depository corporations stood at OMR25.10 billion at the end of December 2018, witnessing a year-on-year (YoY) growth of 6.4 per cent, according to the bulletin issued by the Central Bank of Oman (CBO).

Credit to the private sector increased by 4.9 per cent to OMR22 billion at the end of December 2018. The household sector

(mainly under personal loans) constituted 45.6 per cent of the total credit to the private sector, closely followed by the non-financial corporate sector at 45.8 per cent, while financial corporations and other sectors constituted 5.4 per cent and 3.2 per cent, respectively.

Total deposits grew by 7.8 per cent to OMR23.30 billion, with private sector deposits increasing by 2.6 per cent to OMR14.30 billion at the end of December 2018.

Sector-wise, the contribution of households to total private sector deposits stood at 48.5 per cent, followed by non-financial corporations at 30.4 per cent, financial corporations at 18.5 per cent, and the other sectors at 2.5 per cent.

Telecoms sector to lead digital transformation

Against a backdrop of 5G imminence, the State of Application Services report says that as many as 80 per cent of telecoms professionals are currently executing on digital transformation plans.

Times News Service

MUSCAT: The telecoms industry is fast emerging as a digital transformation and application services trailblazer, according to new research from F5 Networks.

Against a backdrop of 5G imminence, the fifth annual State of Application Services report indicates that as many as 80 per cent of telecoms professionals are currently executing on digital transformation plans.

This is well ahead of 69 per cent in all other examined industries, the report further added.

Telecom respondents

Telecom respondents are also pulling out the stops to re-evaluate their structures, processes, and workflows to reduce total cost of ownership, as well as embrace more agile methodologies. For example, 58 per cent claim to be migrating away from single function, siloed IT teams compared to 55 per cent of the total survey sample.

"The telecoms industry is fast emerging as a digital transformation and application services trailblazer," said Cindy Borovick, Business Intelligence Director, F5 Networks.

"With 5G around the corner – and in a world where network resources expand and contract based on demand – a profitable service will only be achieved with cloud-based micro-services, automation, and orchestration."

A key SOAS report

A key SOAS report discovery is that telecom respondents are ahead of other industries for container adoption.

Three out of five (60%) are actively engaged with the technology, compared to 56 per cent of the total survey.

Furthermore, telecom respondents are starting to stand out for embracing newer application services.

The top four application services planned for deployment in the telecoms space are SDN gateway (37 per cent, compared to 22 per cent in all other industries), IoT gateways (29 per cent, compared to 20 per cent), service mesh (28 per cent, compared to 13 per cent), and compression (28 per cent, compared to 15 per cent).

The SOAS suggests that the rise of containers has boosted deployment plans for the latter three.

INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY

Luxury development opens for investment in Madinat Al Irfan

MUSCAT: Owning a prized piece of Muscat real estate is now an exciting reality for homebuyers and investors, regardless of their nationality. Boulevard Tower, a splendid mixed-used community set in the heart of the capital's prestigious Madinat Al Irfan at Muscat Hills neighbourhood, is nearly ready for occupation on a freehold basis.

High-end in design and construction, ultra-modern in technology and amenities, and vibrant in its communal settings, the property's 176 residential apartments and 15 retail offerings also come with a solid value proposition for those seeking a high return on their investment.

Boulevard Tower is the latest venture of the well-known property developer ASAS Oman Group. The company has appointed leading Omani real estate brokerage firm tibiaan properties as the exclusive agency in the marketing of the project to local and international investors in an agreement signed by Sheikh Abdullah Al Khalili, Director - ASAS Oman Group and Mr. Fahad Al Ismaili, CEO - tibiaan properties.

To invest in Boulevard Tower is to be part of one of Muscat's most sought-after addresses. The centrepiece of the signature real estate development is a strikingly designed seven-storey tower set on a 5,137 sq metre plot within Madinat Al Irfan at Muscat Hills. It features an array of one, two and three-bedroom apartments superbly furnished and fitted out keeping in mind the discerning needs of individuals, couples and families as investors or tenants. Conceived as a safe and secure yet vibrant residential enclave, the property comes with, among other amenities, a temperature-controlled swimming pool, gym, children's play area, concierge, reception area and communal gardens. All apartments are finished to a high specification, both in terms of materials, finish and appliances. Solid beech wood main doors, ducted air-conditioners and luxury fitted bathrooms lend an element of sophistication to the apartments. Technology and convenience comes in the form of modern appliances including a cooker, hob, extractor, fridge/freezer and microwave oven.

Equally investment-worthy are the project's 15 retail offerings, all of which are accessible from the development's distinctive Boulevard setting – an avenue of chic cafes, restaurants and branded outlets.

Sheikh Abdullah Al Khalili, Director - ASAS Oman Group, added, "With the signing of this agreement with tibiaan, we are happy to enlist the expertise of a strong and proven market player in the marketing of Boulevard Tower to prospective customers in Oman and beyond. Boulevard Tower is targeted at those who wish to make a lifestyle choice that combines high quality of living space and modern amenities with an address that is truly distinctive."

"We are delighted to obtain the sole rights to market this stylish new ITC in Muscat," said Mr. Fahad Al Ismaili, CEO - tibiaan properties. "It attests to our growing reputation as a world-class provider of real estate brokerage and property management services to this rapidly growing economic sector. Boulevard Tower will soon be ready for occupation and we look forward to commencing sales for this superb property very shortly."

Adding cachet to the property's appeal is its unrivalled location. Built on a hillock that constitutes part of the master-planned Muscat Hills development, Boulevard Tower affords spectacular views of the picturesque suburbs laid out around Muscat International Airport.
